Description:

Rare late state of De Vaugondy's map of America, updated to include the details of all three of Cook's voyages.

The Northwest Coast of America has again been heavily revised to include the discoveries up to 1800, with the earliest hint of the course of the Columbia River shown, albeit an amalgam of the Columbia and Frazier Rivers.

The Northwestern Plains are shown as a large blank, transitioning from the sea of the West and similar misconceptions, to the pre-Lewis & Clark and Humboldt period.

The United States is shown in outline color, along, separated from the region purchased from France by the Americans (Louisiana Purchase).

Lacks text panel on the right, which was present on earlier states.
