Description:

Scarce French & Indian War Era Map of the Southeast

Detailed map of the Carolinas and parts of Georgia and Tennessee, from Bellin's La Petit Atlas Maritime.

The map covers the coastal region from Albemarle Sound to Port Royal and extends inland beyond the Piedmont region to the Cherokee Lands of western Carolina and Tennessee and Georgia. Several major interior roads cross paths in Augusta Georgia, with nice coverage of the region around Augusta. A number of counties are located in the Carolinas, along with several major coastal roads.

While frequently confused with Bellin's smaller map of the region, this map of Carolinas is one of the best large format treatments of the Carolinas to appear during the time period immediately after the French & Indian War. The map includes excellent detail, both geographical and topographical, at a time when the commercial prosperity of the Carolina & Georgia Colonies is beginning to flourish. A nice wide margined example of this scarce map.
