Description:

The Cantelli-Rossi map of the Dalmatian Coastline

Highly detailed map of the Coast of Croatia, extending to Albania and north to just beyond the Sava River, published in Rome by Giacomo Rossi.

Shows administrative divisions, cities, towns, landmarks, churches, forests, rivers and mountains.

Giacomo Cantelli da Vignola (1643 - 1695) was an important Italian cartographer and engraver active in 17th century Modena. Cantelli da Vignola is best known for pioneering the Italian style of fine bold engraving that would eventually be embraced and expanded upon by Vincenzo Coronelli. Vignola based his maps not just on earlier maps, but also upon the accounts prepared by travelers and merchants of journeys to foreign lands.
