Description:

Antique Map of Africa Heightened in Gold Leaf

Striking example of Hondius' map of Africa, first issued in 1606.

This was Hondius' second map of Africa, and reflects considerable improvements in the geography of the interior. Cape Horn is more rounded and the Rio de Spirito Santo and River Cuamo is named. While based upon Mercator's map, Hondius has improved considerably on Mercator's coastline, particularly Madagascar. Hondius also adds Saldanha Bay and Cape Falco, and eliminates Cayneca. The map reflects the Portuguese discoveries on the Upper Zambezi.

Detailed Condition:

Minor toning. Heightened with gold leaf.
