Description:

Nice example of the first edition of Bradford's large map of the Republic of Texas, first published in 1838.

In 1835, Bradford issued a small map of the Texas shortly before it became a Republic. In 1838, Bradford issued his Illustrated Atlas, a much larger and more lavish production, which included the present map. It includes all of the empresario land grants and colonies, as well as the early county configurations.
