Description:

Rare U.S. Army recruiting poster featuring a globe at the center.

According to the limitation note in the bottom margin, the poster was printed in an edition of 25,000, but it remains exceptionally scarce today; we find no records of it anywhere. What's more, all of the output that we can find for Woodburn came when he designed several posters for the United States during the Second World War. During the War he was in charge of the Recruiting Publicity Bureau.

This poster promotes the recruiting office at 709 Mission Street in San Francisco.
