Description:

Fine old color example of this large pair of highly detailed maps of the Eastern Hemisphere and Western Hemisphere.

The search for the Northwest passage is actively ongoing, but still several 20+ years away from being discovered, although an added line provides a hopeful overview.

The coastline of Australia (New Holland) is mostly complete, although still highly conjectural, with no indication of any land in the Antarctic Regions.

Mexico is now indedpent from Spain, but Texas is not yet a Republic.

British Honduras is noted in red.

A nice large format pair, which would look handsome framed together as a pairing.
