Description:

Very rare Russian-language map of South America, published in St. Petersburg in 1836.

This is evidently a later state of the map, as one can make out an erased key under the title.

The map gives a numbered list of the countries under the image. Numbers 1-3 are English, Netherlands, and French (parts of Guyana, respectively).

Antarctica is labeled "Нов. Южн. Шотландія" (New South Scotland).

The map comes from the 1836 edition of Всеобщий атлас или собрание карт всего земного шара, изданный для пользы юношества и сверенный с географиею Арсеньева и других Федором Позняковым. Второе издание, исправленное и дополненное 7 картами, выгравированными г. Фроловым. This translates as The universal atlas or collection of maps of the entire globe. Published for
