Description:

Fascinating pictorial map that portrays the many unique aspects of life on earth. Map itself portrays the world divided into biomes. Insets detail the differences in summer and winter primary productivity between the hemispheres. Includes drawings of species endemic to various parts of the world, from the Corsican Red Deer to the Spectacled Bear. Extensive notes on areas of particular interest, such as Lake Baikal or Andean forests.

A great tool for teaching or simply for appreciating the beauty and diversity of the natural world.
