Description:

Vintage pictorial bird's eye view of Paris, based on the view Peltier and issued by Blondel La Rougery for a host of hotels and Parisian retail companies throughout the 20th century. This example was published for Grand Marnier in 1951.

This view is the most famous bird's eye view of Paris second only to Turgot's famous 20-sheet view.

This example has a blue overprint that shows where the Hotel Inter-Continental is on Rue de Rivoli near the Louvre.

This is an over-printed edition with an extensive legend covering the following tourist hotspots: hotels, restaurants, larger cafe-restaurants, brasseries, cabarets (dancing restaurants), night clubs, cinemas, theaters, concerts, musical theater, music halls, circuses, chansonniers, large stores, and travel agencies.
