Description:

A rare map of Philadelphia and Boston, from Rogers & Johnston's Atlas of the United States. The map shows the layout of the two cities including streets, neighborhoods, and other major features. The map of Boston and environs only shows the downtown area, Charlestown, East Boston, and South Boston, an area only several miles across centered on Boston Harbor. The map of Philadelphia, on the other hand, is tens of miles across. While the city was significantly more populous than Boston, such a wide portrayal was likely unnecessary. However, this allows for good detail on the areas that now encompass the suburbs and neighboring cities of Philadelphia.

The choice of these two maps is puzzling; it is unlikely that they were ordered alphabetically or by
