Description:

An iconic "earthrise" photo taken by the Apollo 10 Lunar Module, looking west in the direction of travel. The photo was taken in May of 1969, and this original NASA print was made in the same month. At the time the picture was taken, the Lunar Module was located above the lunar farside highlands at approximately 105 degrees east longitude.

This photo comes with the purple-ink press release for the photo that accompanied some 8x10s upon publication.

Rarity

A closely related Kodak Paper 8x10 (AS10-27-3895 versus AS10-27-3890), sold from the Collection of Philip Kulpa at Sotheby's in 2020 for $2,500.

Provenance

From the collection of a Houston-area NASA employee.
