Description:

Fascinating World War II propaganda map issued to support the British War effort.

An interesting stylized depiction of a male figure standing in front of a map of Europe and Asia, holding a bow shaped like a fighter aircraft aimed at Japan on the map. Beside him are a tank and warship also pointed toward towards Japan.

The map was issued in several languages, including Farsi and Arabic.

The map was issued published in Nottingham by J. Howitt & Son.

Sevek (1918-1994) had been a pre-war student at the Art Academy of Vienna, he then worked with the Austrian branch of Metro Goldwin Meyer (MGM) and, as here, later, propaganda posters for the British.
