Description:

Fine separately issued map of Denver, published by Edward Rollandet in Denver.

A fine large map, illustrating the early subdivisions in the city of Denver, with vignettes of the Windsor Hotel, Albany Hotel, Essex Building and Johnson Block. The map includes the names of early land owners, streets, buildings, parks, creeks, rivers and lakes, canals, property owners, farms, and rail, cable, horsecar, and motor lines and much else is clearly presented.

Rollandet was a Denver map publisher who issued a series of maps of Denver from about 1886 to 1905.

A very rare map of early Denver. Only 1 copy of the map has appeared in AMPR in the past 30 years. American Exchange reports no auction sales.
