Description:

Scarce late state of Guillaume De L'Isle's map of the Western Hemisphere, updated to include the 3 voyages of Captain James Cook.

Dezauche also shows the route of the voyages of Abel Tasman (1642), Quiros, Magellan (1520), Le Maire (1616), Mendana (1568 and 1595). Davis's sighting of Icebergs southwest of the Straits of Magellan is noted, and the later voyages of Halley (1700), St. Louis (1708), Le Maire (1738) and Le Lion (1756) are also noted. In the North Pacific, the routes of Gaetan (1542), Tchirikow (1741) and the St. Antoine (1710) are noted.

The most notable changes from prior editions include:

- Updated mapping of New Zealand, which is no longer attached to the unknown southern continent.
- The mythical antarctic continent has been removed.
- Conjectural Northwest Passage is now combined with Cook's treatment of Alaska and the Pacific Northwest
- The Sea of the West is removed
