Description:

Rare separately issued map of California, published in New York City by Colton.

Includes excellent detail throughout the map, including counties, roads, rivers, lakes, mountains, railroads, stations, gold mines, dry lakes, extinct volcano craters, many curious mining districts in San Bernardino and Tulare Counties and also in Esmerelda County.

Various Emmigrant Roads, the Steamship routes along the coast and a host of other early details are noted. Fredonyet's Trail of 1850 is shown. Copper Mines are shown in LA County and Gold Mines in SD County. Mojave Sink and Camp Cody are listed. Numerous crossings shown on the Colorado River.

One of the most detailed and interesting separately issued maps of California we have seen from this period. We are unsure of the source, which may be a German Emmigrant's Guide.
