Description:

Interesting separately published map of New York City and vicinity, oriented with North at the top (most other double page maps of New York from this era are oriented with East at the top).

Shows parks, streets, wards, buildings, rail lines, wharfs, and many other features. Inset of Upper NYC and part of Westchester County. Also shows much of Brooklyn, Hoboken and Jersey City.

A nice large format map. From a post-Civil War edition of Colton's General Atlas. JH Colton and his successors were one of the pre-eminent American map publishing firms in the mid-19th Century.

Detailed Condition:

Original covers. Minor fold discoloration.
