Description:

An excellent 18th-century composite atlas of the world, featuring primarily the maps of Johann Baptist Homann, including a world map and suite of continents, as well as many European and adjacent regional maps. In addition to maps by Homann, the atlas is augmented with some by his contemporary Matthaus Seutter.

The latest dated map in the atlas is from 1748, and the atlas was probably compiled in this period or slightly later.

The atlas includes the following maps:

1. Planiglobii Terrestris cum Utroq Hemisphaerio Caelesti
2. Europa
3. Regnorum Hispaniae et Portugalliae
4. Totius Regni Galliae sive Franciae Tabula
5. Magna Britannia complectens Angliae, Scotiae et Hiberniae Regna
6. Britanniae sive Angliae Regnum
7. Tabula Generalis Totius Belgii qua Provinciae XVII Infer. Germaniae
8. Germaniae Inferioris sive Belgii pars Meridionalis
9. Brabantiae Ducatus
10. Belgii pars Septentrionalis
11. Nova Totius Helvetiae

Detailed Condition:

Folio. 18th-century full vellum (a little stained, foot of spine restored, possibly a remboitage). No title page. 58 hand-colored engraved maps (one map in two parts), all maps in original hand-color. (The atlas shows evidence of having been recombined from at least one other composite atlas at an early date; the maps have 18th-century ink inscriptions and consecutive numbers on the verso, however, in some cases the maps have had their old numbers crossed out and new numbers added. In all cases, these changes are made in iron gall ink in an 18th-century hand.)
