Description:

Superb Original Hand-Color Example.

Striking large format map of Asia, by Jaillot. Although the imprint line has not been updated, this example was probably published by Mortier in Amsterdam around 1696.

The map extends as far east as New Guinea and "Terre Iesso" and west to Eastern Europe and the Nile River.

First issued in 1674, this two-sheet map of Asia provides a highly detailed picture of the continent, based upon the geographical compilations and work of Nicolas Sanson which remained unpublished at the time of his death.

Not enough can be said about the original hand-coloring of this example, which is especially careful, fresh, and strong.

Detailed Condition:

Full original hand-color, including the cartouche, which is often left uncolored in original color examples. Minor color offsetting. Two sheets joined as one.
