Description:

Includes The Caravan Routes To Mecca

Large detailed map of the region, centered on the Saudi peninsula and the Red Sea.

In the Arabian Peninsula, the map notes the Route of the Indian Caravans from Katif (El Qatif) to Mecca and the Route of the Persian Caravans from Mecca To Basra, where it meets the Caravans to Aleppo.

In Egypt, the map notes the Caravan route from Mecca to Dongola, the Caravan route from Sudan to Meca, the Route from Niger to Cairo and several unnamed routes. And east of Terfowi is labeled Moving Sand.

Bahrain is named, with Catura to the south. Samahae is shown, likely that "Samahe" an early attempt at the peninsula of Qatar. The name is very rare on maps, although it is mentioned in the Edinburgh Encyclopedia in 1832.

Koueit (Kuwait) is named.

Detailed map, showing the caravan routes. Of interest is the route of the Frigate 'La Venus', which charted the Red Sea, the Persian Gulf, and the Indian Ocean before disappearing in a hurricane with all crew and cargo in 1788. One of the best large format English atlas maps of the period.
