Description:

Illustrating the Gulf Stream and Scarce sea chart of the North Atlantic, published by the French Depot De La Marine in 1854.

The map shows magnetic declinations and a number of other observations.

Of note are the red lines and pencil notes, showing 2 voyages of a French ship which touched on the Spanish coast near Vigo and may have entered the Mediterranean, but whose primary route led through the Canary islands to the coast of Africa, with extensive notes on travel between Cap Vert, Senegal and the Cap Vert Islands, tracked by date.

A name appears in the top right margin, P. de Longeville.

Detailed Condition:

Dissected and laid on linen. Minor loss to the linen.
