Description:

With 17th Century Italian Handwritten Text on Verso

Nice example of Jodocus Hondius' map of the Lake Geneva area, oriented to the Southeast.

An important early regional map of Lake Geneva, one of the first maps to focus on the region. Includes fine detail and decorative embellishment.

The present example was almost certainly published separately, as it has no printed text on the verso, but includes a lengthy description in Italian, which appears to be contemporary to the map.

Detailed Condition:

Minor lightened area at centerfold and minor foxing. Includes handwritten text on the verso in an early 17th Century hand.
