Description:

Unrecorded By Shirley.

The present map represents an exciting discovery in historical cartography, being a 1682 folio Du Val world map unrecorded as such by Shirley.

The map carries the French tradition, started by Boisseau, of stripping away decorative embellishment in favor of a concise overall design. The present map closely follows its direct antecedent, the Du Val-Berey world map of 1661, and indeed few, if any, cartographic changes have been made.

States and Editions

The first edition of this map appears in Shirley's 1984 The Mapping of the World as number 443. In the first edition of his cartobibliography, Shirley did not realize that his number 443 had originally been published in 1661, not 1668, as initially stated.

Furthermore, we can add that the present map is a completely different plate compared to Shirley 443, not merely the final state of that map. The most notable change

Therefore, Shirley 443 appeared in three states: 1661 (Nicolas Berey); 1668 (Jaillot); and 1678 (Jaillot). The Du Val world map was then re-engraved and issued with a new privilege in 1682 (the present map).

It is possible that Shirley (443) was published under a 20-year privilege starting in 1661, and upon its expiry in 1681, the map was replaced with another plate and published by Jaillot under a different 20-year privilege. This could explain the two plates and the lack of privilege interference.

The present map bears the imprint: "Chez H: Jaillot, joignant les grands Augustins aux 2 Globes Avec Privilege du Roy, our Vingt and. 1682"
