Description:

Striking full color example of this fine map of Poland, showing the provinces stripped from the control of Poland at the end of the 18th Century.

The table notes the population of Poland before dismemberment (14,260,000), the populations of the regions taken by Russia, Austria and Prussia (totaling 4,390,000) and the remaining Population after dismemberment (9,330,000).

A fine overview of the history of Poland's final boundaries at the end of the 18th Century.

Detailed Condition:

Old color. Minor loss at upper left corner.
