Description:

Interesting Vichy-era manuscript pictorial map of France, drawn in 1941.

The map includes the coat of arms of Vichy France in the upper-right corner.

The map reflects the time and place it was made, with a reactionary and quasi-fascist aesthetic. France is shown with various childlike cartoon characters dressed in historical garb, some reflecting local regions but others not.

An interesting insight into the French self-image within the Vichy collaborator state.

The map is signed in the lower-left "y. Landais"

Detailed Condition:

Small loss from the upper-left corner. Faint foxing. Pen and gouache on paper.
