Landmark Map of the Mississippi River

Des Barres's chart of the Mississippi River is the largest printed map of the Mississippi River published in the 18th century and almost certainly one of the most important. The chart is extremely rare and is not present in most examples of the Atlantic Neptune.

Mississippi River, From Iberville to Yazous.

Des Barres's chart tracks the course of the Mississippi beginning in the area of Vicksburg, Mississippi and proceeding south beyond Baton Rouge, Louisiana. The map was issued during one of the most fascinating periods in the history of the South, during a time when the region to the east of the river was controlled by Great Britain, while New Orleans and the region to the west were under the control of Spain. Much of the information used in Des Barres's chart derives from Lt. John Ross' map of the river, based upon his expedition of 1765.

The map includes a tremendous amount of local information, especially along the eastern bank of the river.

The map shows settlements, forts, creeks, cliffs and many property lots. The Village of Toniac Indians is located, along with the French Settlements of Point Coupee.

The map extends to just north of New Orleans and extends north to the Vicksburg area, centered on Natchez.

An essential map for Mississippi River collectors.
