Description:

One of the Earliest Obtainable Views of Geneva

Rare early bird's-eye plan of the town of Geneva, engraved by Paolo Forlani in Venice and first published in 1567.

Geneva is shown from the south, with the Lake in the foreground and the Rhone River and Arve River beyond.

The map would subsequently be published for Guilio Ballino's Civitatum Aliquot Insigniorum . . . and printed by Zaltieri in 1569.

In lower text banner is a lettered key showing the location of about a dozen important points on the view.

Detailed Condition:

Minor dampstain at top centerfold. Minor discoloration and repairs along the centerfold.
