Description:

Rare postcard bird's-eye view of the Columbia River by Fred Routledge, Oregon's best mapmaker.

The view looks over the Columbia River from the south, showing Portland, Oregon, Mount Hood, Mount Adams, and Mount St. Helens. Spokane is labeled in the far distance.

The view is surrounded by eight photographic vignettes of landmarks around the Columbia River.

Like much of Routledge's work, this view was made for the Spokane, Portland, & Seattle Railway.

This would appear to be among the earlier and rare of Routledge's pieces.

Detailed Condition:

Vertical fold. Minor soiling.
