Description:

Antique copper engraving showing a celestial globe. The globe sits on a checkered table and is surrounded by a golden horizon band. Numerous constellations are visible in the work, including Ursa Major, Leo, the triangle, Aries, Scorpio, and many others. An equator line is drawn, allowing for the signs of the zodiac to be easily identified.

This work originally appeared in the celestial atlas Mercurii Philosphici Firbamentum Firmianum. The work was engraved by Jakob Hering and published by Thomas for his patron Leopold Anton von Firmian, Archbishop of Salzburg.
