Description:

Attractive original antique map of Greece and western Turkey published in Paris in the late 17th century.

The hydronyms shown have evolved since the publication of this map, with the Adriatic Sea labeled the Gulf of Venice, and the Aegean and Black Seas given the alternate names of White Sea and Pont-Euxin, respectively. Many place names are shown, with detail on Peloponnese and Crete being particularly extensive. Rivers, lakes, towns, and more are all named. Relief is shown pictorially.

This map was produced by Pierre Marriette Jr. and Nicolas Sanson, who collaborated to produce many important French maps.

Detailed Condition:

Original hand-color in outline. Fold toning. Minor offsetting.
