Description:

Detailed antique engraved map of Ukraine, Crimea, the Sea of Azov, and the northern Black Sea, issued in Paris in the latter half of the 17th century.

The map was first prepared by Nicolas Sanson in the 1660s, and then later issued by Pierre Mariette.

The northern Black Sea region was the site of many battles and wars between the Crimean Khanate (Little Tartary), Russia, and the Ottoman Empire. Around the time the map was made, the Crimean Campaigns of 1687 and 1689 resulted in the halt to Ottoman expansion in Europe and the continued independence of the Crimean Khanate.

Detailed Condition:

Original hand-color in outline. Minor centerfold toning. VG to VG+
