Description:

Attractive original antique plan of the city of Ferrara, in northern Italy. Located just away from the Po River, Ferrara is situated in an agricultural part of Emilia-Romagna. The city is noted for its fine old architecture, which is here shown in detail and surrounded by a moat.

A key at the bottom of the map lists forty-five places of interest. This includes churches, fortifications, and gates to the city.

Original copperplate engraving by Wolfgang Kilian, from the first edition of 'Mercurius Italicus'.

Detailed Condition:

Trimmed close to neatline.
