Description:

Rare early state of Archibald Fullarton's map of the Arctic regions, illustrating McClure's expedition.

The map was apparently originally issued for the Royal Geographical Society to illustrate Dr. Kane's expeditions. This early edition is very rare.

The map was later re-issued in the 1870s in Fullarton's Atlases, with significant decorative embellishments.

The later issue is relatively common, however we cannot find another example of this early state.
