Description:

For Every Thing There is a Season -- Signed by the Maker

Fascinating image celebrating peace in Jerusalem, with a biblical verse from Ecclesiastes III as the thematic centerpiece.

The print is composed with a set of impactful images superimposed over the Hebrew word "□□□□□□" (Shalom - Peace). The primary text (in 3 languages) consists of the words to Omnia Tempus Habent (For Every Thing There is a Season), the opening phrase of a passage in Ecclesiastes III, one of the most famous and widely used quotations from the Bible.

The images on the map include the Western Wall (or Kotel), Dome of the Rock and Church of the Holy Sepulchre, olive branches and other flora, with the words Peace, □□□□ (Arabic), and □□□□□□ (Hebrew) in the corners.

We have been unable to trace the maker of the print, beyond noting his name and signature at the bottom right corner. We trace one other Isenberg printed image which was offered for sale in 2021 and have dated the print based upon the dating on the other image (1992).
