Description:

Fine example of the 1593 edition of De Jode's regional map of the Turkey, Greece, Cyprus, Armenia, and Asia Minor, engraved by Van Deutecum. The map includes an attractive level of detail throughout the region, with many features shown pictorially, and the island-dotted portion of the Aegean shown in multicolor.

The map includes great decorative elements, including two title cartouches and three sailing ships. Noah's Ark also appears on Mount Ararat. Holy Land detail is extensive.

This is the only De Jode map to show such a large contiguous portion of the Mediterranean and would have been important in placing this important region of trade in context for the northern European merchants who bought this volume.
