Description:

Striking example of Blaeu's highly sought after map of Bermuda, with remarkable decorative cartouche, compass rose, and other embellishments. The map is based upon John Norwood's survey of 1618. The text at the bottom includes a division into lots and tribes and a list of the Proprietors. A few wormholes have been invisibly repaired at the centerfold, otherwise, a striking margined example of the most decorative of all 17th Century maps of Bermuda to appear in a commercial atlas.
