Description:

Handsome original hand-color example of the map of New England from Anthony Finley's New American Atlas, published in 1826.

The atlas was a response to the success of Tanner's seminal 1822 New American Atlas, which re-defined the standard for American commercial cartography.

The map is hand-colored by counties and shows towns, townships, roads, rivers, mountains, lakes, islands, and a host of other details. The key at the lower right shows the populations by county for 1810 and 1820 censuses.

Detailed Condition:

Original hand-color by county.
