

Barry Lawrence Ruderman Antique Maps Inc.

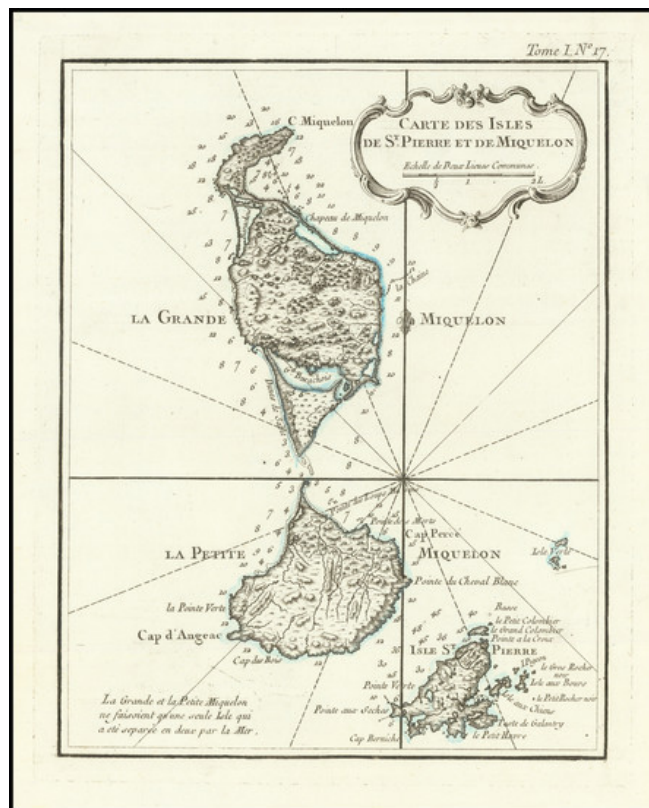

7407 La Jolla Boulevard
La Jolla, CA 92037

www.raremaps.com

(858) 551-8500
blr@raremaps.com

Carte de L'Isle St. Pierre et de Miquelon

Stock#: 81608
Map Maker: Bellin
Date: 1764
Place: Paris
Color: Hand Colored
Condition: VG+
Size: 6.5 x 8.5 inches
Price: $ 125.00

Description:

The Strategically Important Islands of St. Pierre

An excellent map of islands of St. Pierre, from Bellin's Petit Atlas Maritime.

Following France's losses during the Seven Years War, France surrendered most of its Colonial claims in the New World to England.

Portuguese João Álvares Fagundes first landed on the two islands in October 1520 and named the St. Pierre island group the 'Eleven Thousand Virgins'. Following Jacques Cartier's expedition into the region in 1536, the islands became French possessions.

For the next two centuries, the islands remained uninhabited, although they were regularly visited by the Mi'kmaq people, as well as and Basque and Breton fishermen.

Barry Lawrence Ruderman
Antique Maps Inc.

7407 La Jolla Boulevard
La Jolla, CA 92037

www.raremaps.com

(858) 551-8500
blr@raremaps.com

---

Carte de L'Isle St. Pierre et de Miquelon

In 1670, during Jean Talon's tenure as Intendant of New France, a French officer annexed the islands when he found a dozen French fishermen camped there. The British Royal Navy soon began to harass the French, pillaging their camps and ships. By the early 1700s, the islands were again uninhabited, and were ceded to the British by the Treaty of Utrecht which ended the War of the Spanish Succession in 1713.

Under the terms of the Treaty of Paris (1763), which put an end to the Seven Years' War, France ceded all its North American possessions, but Saint-Pierre and Miquelon were returned to France. France also maintained fishing rights on the coasts of Newfoundland (French Shore), as a means of allowing the French to retain their right to fish in the region.

Detailed Condition: