Description:

Abraham Goos's sea chart of the Canary Islands, showing magnificent detail on these African islands. The map is wonderfully laid out for seafaring navigation, with the Canary Islands strewn about the rhumb-line crossed sea. The map was originally published in Amsterdam in 1669.

The map names the islands of Fuerteventura, Palma, Tenerife, and Gros Canaria, and shows the various port cities. An inset shows the reefs and coastlines of Lancerota in greater detail. Decorative elements include a ship at sea and three developed cartouches.

An extremely decorative map of the islands.

Detailed Condition:

Beautiful hand-color, heightened in gold.
