Description:

Nice 19th-century double-page atlas map of the state of Florida, published by Rand McNally and Company in Chicago in 1896. Showing an outdated county structure and the early railroad lines of the state, the region is preserved as it was before the booms of the early twentieth century.

The map includes two fine insets, showing the Orlando region ("Map Showing Parts of Lake, Orange and Volusia Counties. On Enlarged Scale.") and southern Florida, as well as a listing of all the railroads in operation in the state. In all, a nice map of the state.

Detailed Condition:

Minor centerfold toning.
