Description:

Nice impression of Nicolas Sanson's map of Savoie, the French Alps, and southwestern Switzerland. This map was produced by Nicolas Sanson, one of the great French cartographers of the 17th century. This is the 1652 edition of the map, dated in the title.

The map stretches from Lake Geneva in the northeast to the Rhone just north of Avignon in the lower left. The many mountains of the region are shown in the simple, French school style, somewhat rounded and delicately shaded. Roads, rivers, and cities are all shown. The ski areas of Chamonix and the city of Grenoble are shown.

Detailed Condition:

Original hand-color in outline. Nice, dark impression. Trimmed with contemporary extended margins for inclusion in a composite atlas.
