Description:

Detailed Rand McNally map of California in two sheets with San Francisco, San Diego, and Los Angeles insets.

Steamship and railroad lines are shown. Due to World War I, in 1917 Woodrow Wilson nationalized the railroads. The four major express carriers, Adams Express Company, American Express Company, Wells, Fargo & Company, and Southern Express Company, were consolidated into the American Railway Express Agency (Am. Ry. Exp) until 1920, after which it operated as a private company.

Detailed Condition:

Both sheets have crinkling at upper right corners with a tear repaired with non-archival tape on verso. Some staining on both. Both with some edge creases, mostly contained to margins. Good to VG.
