Description:

A nice example of Valk and Shenk's original antique map of the German-Dutch border in the vicinity of Nijmegen and Duisburg. This fine map was published in Amsterdam at the end of the 17th century.

The map follows the course of the Rhine as passes from Germany to the Netherlands. In the left of the map, we also see the course of the west of the map. Cities named on the map include Arnhem, Duisburg, Nijmegen, and Essen.

This map shows a plethora of detail. Canals, cities, towns, roads, rivers, forests, and more are all indicated.

Detailed Condition:

Original hand-color in outline.
