Description:

Hunting Buffalo on the Plains

A large color print showing a group of Native American hunters and white hunters killing buffaloes somewhere on the Plains. The dramatic scene shows three well-armed white men on horses teamed with five Native American hunters. The white men use pistols and rifles, while the Native Americans use spears and knives to attack the herd of buffalo.

The print is unsigned and the artist is unknown, though we believe it was created in Germany or somewhere in Europe.

Detailed Condition:

Large chromolithograph print on textured paper. A few minor edge nicks. Else quite clean and nice.
