Striking antique engraved map of Scotland, hand-colored by shires, published by William Faden in London in 1778.

The map was corrected and compiled from contemporary astronomical surveys by Thomas Kitchin, Hydrographer to King George III.

The key provides somewhat unusual differentiations: "Universities | Boroughs | Presbyteries have a Line under the Name".

There is an inset of the Shetland Islands in the upper-right corner.

Detailed Condition:

Minor soiling at centerfold. Minor loss in left margin, far from the printed image.
