Description:

Interesting map of North America, with British possessions outlined in red, American in green, Spanish in yellow, and Russian in blue.

Russian America reaches south to the 55th parallel. This map shows the New Hanover to American control, despite simultaneous British claims. Spanish possessions reflect the results of the Adams-Onís Treaty, with Florida under American control and Mexican territory reaching as far north as the 42nd parallel and east as the Sabine River. The Red River Colony, west of Lake Superior and south of Lake Winnipegosis, including parts of present-day North Dakota, Minnesota, Manitoba, and Ontario, is shown as British territory.

Detailed Condition:

Discoloration and text offsetting, most prominent in left half.
