Description:

Iconic pictorial map of the United States, illustrating a Bostonian's (inflated) view of Boston and Environs.

In his typical whimsical style, Wallingford lampoon's the Bostonian perception of the United States., with Cape Cod, Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard shown larger than Long Island and the rest of Massachusetts massively inflated.

The rest of the US is minimized or significantly distorted, including a virtually non-existent New York City, compression of the west coast (including Denver and Omaha), another other curious distortions.

Detailed Condition:

Mounted on canvas. Minor toning.
