Description:

The First Steps on the Moon

This captivating photograph, AS11-40-5873, taken on July 20, 1969, features Astronaut Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., the lunar module pilot, during the historic Apollo 11 extravehicular activity (EVA) on the Moon's surface. In the background to the right, the lunar module stands as a testament to this groundbreaking mission. To Aldrin's right, the deployed Solar Wind Composition (SWC) experiment is visible, actively collecting data. Astronaut Neil A. Armstrong, the mission commander, skillfully captured this iconic moment using a 70mm lunar surface camera.
