Description:

Fine example of Ortelius' classic map of Iceland, one of the most decorative atlas maps of all time. The map provides a remarkable array of the sea monsters which appeared in prints and maps during the 16th and 17th Centuries, which are largely mythical examples of actual sea creatures, such as the sea horse, manta ray, walrus and whale. Some of the more purely fanciful images may derive from tales of St. Brendan, a sixth century Irish missionary who, according to legend, journeyed to Iceland and whose name is associated with a mythical island of the same name. A fine wide margined example, from the 1603 Latin edition of Ortelius' Theatrum Orbis Terrarum, the first modern atlas. Campbell Pl. 40; Van Broeck 161.
