Nineteenth Century facsimile edition of Faden's map of New Jersey, based upon Bernard Ratzer's surveys in 1769, issued in the Geological Survey of New Jersey in 1877. This unusual example is laid on linen, and but for a few clean fold breaks is in nice condition. The map was the most important mapping of New Jersey prior to the American Revolution. It shows the area immediately prior to the battle of Monmouth, including a fortified Valley Forge. A seminal map of New Jersey, with original issues selling for well in excess of $10,000.00. Schwartz & Ehrenberg, pl. 120. Several library stamps from the Georgetown Friends Free Library.
